REMEMBERING 2006

My gavel has been passed to Chuck Rust and the office of your 28th Commodore is closed. I will however participate in most of the 2007 Cruises and Races and all of the other Club activities and take care of the duties of the Staff Commodore.

The remembering part of 2006 is easy to start and hard to finish because we had such a great year and many memorable events. I give credit to our dedicated Board and Officers who made this all happen.

Looking back, eighteen boats participated in our traditional Salute the Compass event on January 1st, Barbara Marrett's February program "Tales From the Remote South Pacific", Mike Chadwick's February Cruise to Deer Harbor, Barry Boyce gave us a fascinating program on What's up with the Stars? We had our traditional Easter Cruise to Lopez Island and the Blakely Island Crab Feed and we must not forget the Sucia Island and the Sidney BC Cruises. All exceptional events.

Now readers space is limited so comments about our sail boat racing program is short. Bill Vanskyhawk and especially Wes George thank you so much for your outstanding racing program for 2006. I had the most fun sailing in Rudi's Race to the Third lagoon for lunch but I will say all the races were well organized and successful. Thank you Wes it was a great season.

2006 was a good year for our club because of the hard work of our dedicated Club Members. Let us all work hard to preserve the past 29 years of our marvelous traditions.

Thanks for the Honor

*Lloyd Bacon
2006 Commodore*

Fred Hoepfner, 89, takes the wheel of his 41-foot ketch, the Mariana. Hoepfner swept the recent Rhumb Regatta, leaving other boats — and perceptions of age — behind. Scott Rasmussen photo

Defending champ Fred Hoepfner, 89, takes Rhumb Regatta 'by mile and a half'

By Scott Rasmussen

These days, Fred Hoepfner takes only a passing fancy in power boats.

Been there, done that.

Instead, he takes pride in being the best sailboat skipper he can be. And, according to Hoepfner, there's nothing like a little competition to bring out the best in a sailor and his boat.

"You have to race in order to learn how to sail," the 89-year-old former Navy captain and WWII veteran said. "People who are just cruising along out there are sailing at about 60 percent of their capacity. When you're racing along side another boat every little move you make makes a big difference."

This year, the difference between the Mariana, Hoepfner's 41-foot ketch, and the rest of the field at the Friday Harbor Sailing Club's 28th annual Rhumb Regatta was dramatic. With the help of an equally-skilled first mate, Wes George, Hoepfner blew away the competition in sweeping all three races in the two-day event. With the victory, he laid claim to the regatta trophy for the second year in a row.

"It went very well."

Hoepfner said of two-day trial on Griffin Bay. "We didn't even need the handicap."

At 16 tons, the Mariana was by far the heaviest boat of the seven that competed May 19 and 20 on Griffin Bay. Because of its weight, the Mariana carries a 257-second per mile handicap, an amount deducted from the time it takes the boat to finish a course.

Sailing club Fleet Commander Dennis Pratt concedes that the Mariana benefited by stronger-than-normal winds at race time, a steady 16 knots. But the biggest difference, he believes, was having a pair of accomplished and savvy sailors onboard, both of whom are also legendary in local sailing circles.

"The winds were so strong he really zipped along," Pratt said of Hoepfner at the helm. "But with those two, they probably could have taken a piece of Shredded Wheat, stuck a sail in it and won the race."

Hoepfner won't dispute that the weighty Mariana had an ally in the wind. Still, he notes that he and George plotted strategy before — and during — each race and had a couple of tricks tucked away in the riggings as well.

In the third and final race, the Mariana started slow and fell behind. But while the rest of the pack was hugging the shoreline, Hoepfner and George spied a fast-moving ebb tide in the middle of San Juan Channel and decided to split from the crowd.

The decision paid dividends, George said.

"We went from 400 yards back to 500 yards ahead in no time," he said.

The maneuver, Hoepfner said, helped catapult the Mariana and its crew past the competition "by a mile and a half." It also illustrates the experience each has in sailing local waters.

"I think we won basically through stealth and deception," Hoepfner chuckled. "I guess that's our secret. Actually, I guess, it was mostly through strategy. And Wes is a very fine sailor too."

The Rhumb Regatta kicks off the sailing club's summer racing season. Another three races will be sponsored by the club this summer — one each in June, July and August — before the finale in October, a two-day race that crosses the international border.

Created in 1980, the regatta remains one of the longest running annual competitions in the San Juans. Originally, it was based at Roche Harbor; its name comes from the first letters in Roche Harbor Ultimate Marine Bash.

Gary Boothman, a founding member of the club, recalls that a similar event, the Thrash, or, Thank Heaven Racing and Spring are Here, was hosted by a sailing club in Victoria, B.C., at that time. Through efforts of club founders like Rod Mager and Fred Krabbe — and with the encouragement of Neil Tarte, former owner of Roche Harbor Resort — the Rhumb Regatta became the local response, he said.

Smith and Tin Lizzy take Predicted Log title

June 20/07

Who's the top navigator of San Juan's waterways? That question would probably spark a spirited debate.

But for now, if such a title existed, Travis Smith's claim to it couldn't be denied.

Smith, commodore of the San Juan Island Yacht Club, finished first in the Power Division and first overall in the 20th annual running of the local Predicted Log competition.

Co-sponsored by the the Friday Harbor Sailing Club, San Juan Island Yacht Club and the Friday Harbor Power Squadron, this year's course covered 21 miles. The six skippers who participated in the June 9 event braved winds of up to 21 knots during the competition.

SAILING

The Tin Lizzy, piloted by Smith, took first in the Power Division and First Overall.

Power Squadron commander Marc Forlenza, skipper of the Waterfox, finished second in the Power Division.

Jim Corenman and the Wonko finished third.

Seven boats DNF in Jack and Jill

Opposing currents and lack of wind forced all seven entries in the annual Jack and Jill Race to call in DNF.

It's the first time in Fleet Captain Dennis Pratt's involvement in the Jack and Jill that there was no finisher.

Sailors start in Shipyard

Cove and circumnavigate Jones Island. The race ends at Shipyard Cove at 1600.

"They had a terrible current against them," Pratt said.

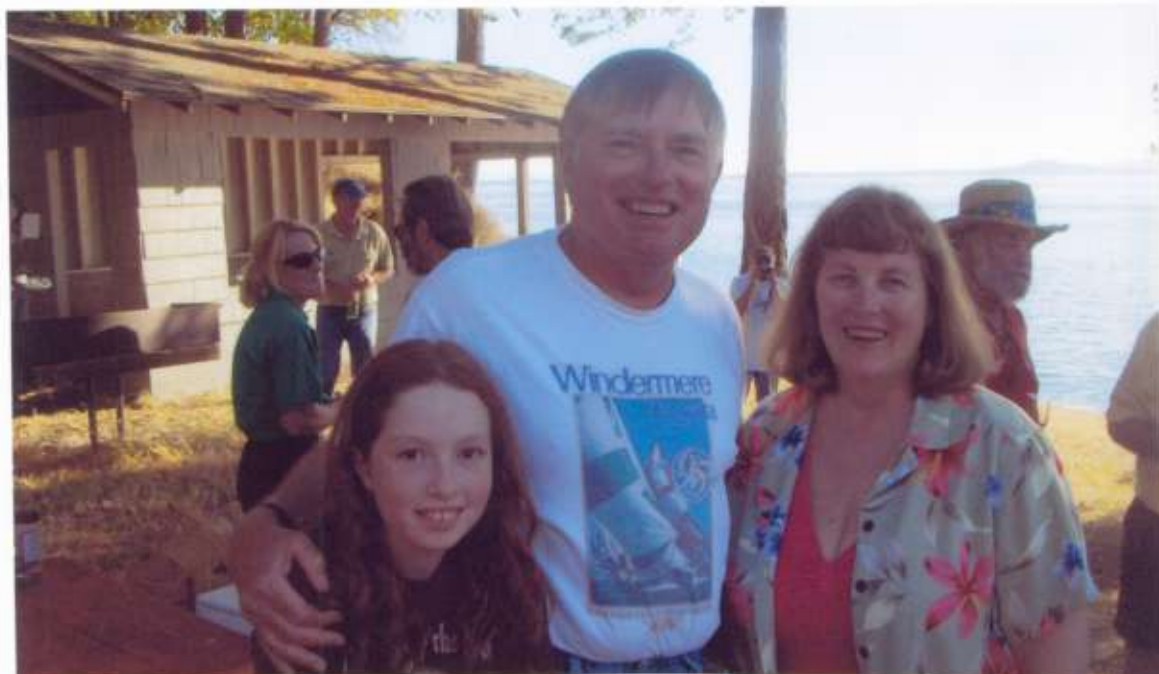

This year's field consisted of three Cruising class and four PHRF class competitors.

Navigational skill is the premium in the Predicted Log Contest. Unlike a race based on speed, a skipper must predict how long it will take to maneuver between four or five navigational aids. Clocks and electronics are prohibited and a powerboat's engine must stay at a constant speed. Points are deducted for falling under or exceeding the predicted time.

In the Sail Division, Dan Wittkopp guided the Alquamie to a first-place finish. Fred Hoepfner in the Mariana and Rich Peterson in Sweet Thursday II also participated.

Fine weather for picnic, but not for sailing

Currents and lack of wind thwarted the Rudi Grigoleit Race for the second consecutive year Saturday.

Five entries in the Friday Harbor Sailing Club race set sail at 11 a.m. from Shipyard Cove, en route to the Coast Guard buoy near Fish Creek, but the boats couldn't make the course.

The course was shortened to Griffin Bay but currents and lack of wind worked against the field.

"We decided to just to have lunch at Turn Island and try another course — to Reid Rock to Shipyard Cove — but we couldn't finish that," Fleet Captain Dennis Pratt said.

Lloyd Bacon and 'Got T-Run' win Single-Handed

This time around, Lloyd Bacon would not be denied.

The San Juan Island skipper made the most of steady southerly winds of up to 15 knots this past weekend to take first place in the rated class of Friday Harbor Sailing Club's annual Single-Handed Race.

(It's "singled-handed" because only one hand, or crew member, is allowed on deck.)

Bacon, runner-up in the annual Rhumb Regatta earlier in the year, outpaced three other skippers competing in the rated class to take top honors in the two-day competition on Griffin Bay. Defending champ Wes George and Chamade did not take part in this year's event.

In the cruising class, the Alishoni, piloted by John Manning, finished in first place.

"We had decent winds and were able to get two races in," said sailing club Fleet Captain Dale Pratt. "I think everyone had a good time."

Don't store the mainsail just yet — there's one more race on the horizon this year and it promises to be a doozy. On Oct. 6, the competition will set sail out of Mitchell Bay on a two-day race that crosses the international border and into Canadian waters. Skippers and crew are expected to return to the finish line the following day.

Santa Ship docks in Friday Harbor Dec. 8

By Scott Rasmussen

You'd better not pout, you'd better not cry. At least not before Dec. 8., and definitely not on that day.

That's because the infinitely-popular Santa Ship will glide into Friday Harbor that evening with Santa and a legion of elves in tow. It's a safe bet the jolly 'ol elf will have already checked his famous "naughty or nice" list a time or two by then.

So be warned. And be there — and be there early.

Last year, a near-record crowd turned out at Spring Street Landing to hail the Santa Ship's arrival and welcome Kris Kringle and crew to Friday Harbor. Sponsored by the San Juan Lions Club, the annual event, now in its 47th year, gets under way at the port in the wake of another time-honored local tradition.

As it has for nearly two decades, the annual Lighted Boat Parade will set the stage for Santa's arrival. Beginning at 5:30 p.m., the fleet, decorated in its finest holiday flare, will set sail from Shipyard Cove and pass the marina twice in prelude to the arrival of Santa and his shipmates. The parade of lighted boats, celebrating its 17th year, is sponsored by the Friday Harbor Sailing Club. (The port is providing free moorage on the night of the parade for registered participants whose home-port is outside Friday Harbor).

As customary, Santa and crew will be accompanied by Friday Harbor's finest as they're whisked away from the port and shuttled through town on a well-lighted fire engine decked out in holiday style. Santa, as he has in the past, will first stop at Islands Convalescent Center to visit with the residents there before he and his holiday entourage take flight to Friday Harbor Middle School. At the middle school, children of all ages will have an opportunity to sit on the lap of the jolly 'ol elf and share with Santa a heart-felt holiday wish.

For information about the Lighted Boat Parade, call Gloria Bentzen, 378-4288.

For Santa Ship information, call Jim Carroll at 378-2155, or John Bostrom, 298-1256.
